

2018-19 Humanities Center Key Dates & Deadlines

Find all applications online @ <http://humcenter.syr.edu> on our FORMS pull-down menu

Submit applications via email to humcenter@syr.edu

Co-sponsorship funding: Submit a proposal at any time (rolling)

Books in the Humanities @2018: Survey seeking this year's authors open now, closes Dec. 14, 2018!

Spring 2020 Faculty Fellowships Applications Due: Noon on Friday, January 25, 2019

Eligibility: Full time tenure-track or tenured faculty from the following units:

College of Arts and Sciences HC Faculty Fellows (2) + Syracuse Symposium Fellow (1)	Maxwell HC Faculty Fellow
African American Studies	Anthropology
Art and Music Histories	Economics
English	Geography
Languages, Literatures, Linguistics	History
Native American Studies	Political Science
Philosophy	Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA)
Religion	Sociology
Women's and Gender Studies	Social Science
Writing Studies Rhetoric and Composition

2019-20 Humanities Center Dissertation Fellow Applications Due: Noon on Friday, February 8, 2019

- Applicants must have passed qualifying exams and/or the prospectus defense and demonstrate clear promise of completing their dissertation during the fellowship year.
- Applicants must have advanced to doctoral candidacy in one of the following departments in Arts and Sciences: English, Philosophy, Religion, or Writing Studies Rhetoric and Composition.
- Fellows must be on campus during the academic year, meet regularly about their research, and participate in Humanities Center activities and events.
- Fellows will give a talk about their research to engage graduate students & faculty across the Humanities.

2019-20 Humanities New York Public Humanities Graduate Fellow Applications Due: February 15, 2019

Apply via Humanities New York <http://humanitiesny.org/> + look for an info sheet on our website in Fall. At SU, the program is open to doctoral students in Anthropology, Composition and Cultural Rhetoric, English, Geography, History, Philosophy, Religion, Sociology, Cultural Foundations of Education, or Literacy in Education. The program is also open to MFA students in Creative Writing or VPA (3-year programs only).

2019-20 Syracuse Symposium Event Proposals Due: Noon on Friday, March 1, 2019

We welcome thematic Symposium event proposals that explore the humanities as public good; engage the digital humanities; show how the humanities can deepen our understanding of enduring questions; and/or illustrate how the humanities can help address pressing issues of our time. Examples of engagement include public lectures, performances, readings, mini-seminars, exhibits, films, and/or workshops. An official call for proposals is generally issued in November, focused on the theme "Silence" for 2019-2020.

2019-20 Jeannette K. Watson Distinguished Visiting Professor in the Humanities Proposals Due: Noon on Friday, March 8, 2019

- Public events organized around the Watson Professor's visit should be designed to attract diverse audiences from across campus and the wider community. The successful candidate's work should be renowned and meaningfully engage the humanities, broadly conceived.
- Generally, the Watson Professor offers a combination of public lectures, mini-seminars or workshops, and participates in various scholarly events, including class visits and/or dialogues with faculty and students.
- Proposals may originate with individual faculty members, groups of faculty, or academic units: the individual or group serves as the principal organizer of the residency and as the primary point of contact and host for the Watson Professor. The Watson Professor's visit to the SU campus can take various forms, but must at minimum involve a 2-week spring residency (including one weekend) or multiple, shorter visits across the academic year.