

Student Leadership Opportunity

Apply by October 18, 2025

The National Humanities Center has established a National Humanities Leadership Council to help prepare a select group of students with humanities-based leadership skills. Students accepted to the Council participate in a unique series of interactive experiences with humanities scholars and leaders from across the country.

In round tables and discussion sessions, they explore the essential importance of humanistic perspectives in addressing the concerns of contemporary society. And, based on the consensus of Council membership, they may also focus on specific projects and engagement with the communities at their institutions.

To apply for a place on the 2025-26 Leadership Council,
