

Syracuse University Humanities Center

Jeannette K. Watson Distinguished Visiting Professor in the Humanities - 2020 | Rescheduled Events

Maisha T. Winn

Chancellor's Leadership Professor and Co-Director, Transformative Justice in Education Center (UC-Davis)

Creating Just Futures: Education, Arts, and Activism

With Professor Winn's Spring 2020 mini residency cut short by COVID, we are pleased to offer this rescheduled slate of online events this fall, open to all. RSVP by Sept. 3 to Linda Taylor [ltaylo03@syr.edu] to register for one or more events, noting any accessibility accommodation requests. (CART will be provided.)

September 10-14

Restorative Justice Community Circles - Virtual Events

Thursday, Sept. 10, 12:30-2:00 p.m. (staff)

Friday, Sept. 11, 1:00-2:30 p.m. (faculty)

Monday, Sept. 14, 1:00-2:30 p.m. (students)

Maisha T. Winn (UC Davis)

Lawrence (Torry) Winn (UC Davis)

As co-directors of the Transformative Justice in Education Center at UC-Davis, the Winns offer separate virtual workshops for staff, faculty, and students to introduce communication strategies for restorative justice work and tools for generating critical dialogues about race, class, gender, ability, and privilege.

September 15

Justice on Both Sides Book Circle

4:00- 5:30 p.m. - Virtual Event

Maisha T. Winn (UC Davis)

Juanita Rivera-Ortiz (YWCA of Syracuse and Onondaga County and Jamesville-Dewitt Central School District Boards)

Rob Scott (Cornell Prison Education Program)

Educators and community members join Winn to discuss how restorative justice can help schools effectively address race, class, and gender inequalities, centered on Winn's book, Justice on Both Sides. Co-sponsored by the Incarceration and Decarceration/Revival Cultures working group of the CNY Humanities Corridor.

September 18

Decolonizing Research, Humanizing Methods

1:00-3:00 p.m. - Virtual Event

Maisha T. Winn (UC Davis)

Winn offers a workshop on equity-oriented, justice-seeking research in the humanities, focusing on listening, storytelling, and acting with and through communities.

Learn more about each event—and our many generous co-sponsors—online at <http://humcenter.syr.edu>.

Maisha T. Winn's residency is hosted by Patrick W. Berry, Associate Professor and Chair - Writing Studies, Rhetoric, and Composition; Brice Nordquist, Dean's Professor of Community Engagement and Associate Professor - Writing Studies, Rhetoric, and Composition; and Marcelle Haddix, Dean's Professor and Chair - Reading and Language Arts

JOIN US!